8 Easy Steps to pass the PMP® exam

1. Check eligibility

(PMP)® is the most recognized project management certificate across the globe. There is a specific criterion that s each candidate must meet before applying for the exam. You can easily check if you are eligible for taking the exam or not by reading the (PMP)® Credentials Handbook. PMI® has published a Credentials Handbook (known simply as "the Handbook"). Download your copy here. Or visit PMLEAD.NET

2. Create Your Personal PMP Study Plan

No plan, no achievement. You cannot pass the PMP exam without a plan. You must develop a study plan that fits your schedule. The plan should include attending PMP® official training (doesn't matter whether it is in-class or online training) and self-study. One of the criteria to be able to take the PMP® exam is to have at least 35 hours PMP® training from an official training provider. Be thoughtful and reasonable when you commit hours per week.

3. Join PMI

Joining the PMI entails many benefits, it will save you money as you will have a discount for taking the exam; you will have access to great free project management resources as PMBOK guide which is the main reference (not only) for PMP® exam, and you will be in the mood (psychologically prepared) to move forward. https://www.pmi.org/membership

Start filling the PMP® application, you don't have to fill it all at once. Fill the initial information and then come back later to complete it upon your availability. The form should be filled accurately as it may be audited by PMI®. (PMI conducts random auditing, you never know which application is going to be audited).

4. Attend the 35 PMP® official training

It doesn't matter how to make it; it is totally up to you. Some people prefer in-class training while others prefer online, self-paced courses. There are so many great training courses out there. If you prefer online, self-paced courses, here is the best:

5. Practice and practice

Reading the PMBOK® Guide and attending the training won't be enough to pass the exam, you have to practice. This means solving real PMP® exam questions as much as you can. Don't forget that you have to solve 200 questions in 4 hours, so you need to familiarize yourself and to know how to manage your time during the exam. Best way to practice solving exam questions is to order PMP® exam simulator. Here is the best PMP® exam simulator: PrepCast PMexam simulator

6. Study and study

Besides to attending the training, you will need to study the PMBOK® Guide very well as it is the main reference for the exam, and there is no harm if you look for other resources. PMI® provides you with several resources that you can study and learn from.

7. Trust yourself

Most people fail in the PMP® exam for two reasons; time management and self-confidence. Time management can be solved by practicing real exam scenarios. Self-confidence will be solved by trusting yourself, by telling yourself that you are going to pass after spending all these hours studying and preparing.

8. Pass the exam and celebrate

If you build a realistic plan and being committed, relax … you passed that exam and you are now a PMP®. Congrats
